Event 3 – Activities for local societies, local leaders training - the second and third stage of the cascade training – indirect and external participants / local society/wide communities

Participation: The event involved more than 3000 citizens, including participants from various cities of IT, SK, and PL (additionally foreign students in the partner's universities. All of them are European citizens). The detailed description is below.

Location / Dates: The event took place in parallel in l'Aquila (IT), Banska Bystrica (SK), Cracow (PL), and Kielce (PL) from 02/03/2020 to 31/03/2022 (after project extension)

Short description: The event is composed of two stages of activities. The second step of the cascade - training for school and academic teachers, teacher councils, and local government representatives. The third stage of the cascade concerns multipliers conducting directly school lessons and after-school activities, academic courses, seminars for students, and activities in the local societies. This event was realized partially online and partially live.

Indicators of this event were bigger than planned (instead of 500 people planned in the application - were trained local (Polish, Italian and Slovak) 780 leaders, who have trained more than 1000 European/local academic students, 500 local school pupils, and 61 local government representatives). Added value was the results of school pupils' work - which can be used as didactic materials for school teachers during lessons.

In Italy was done:

*from 1.10.2020 to 31.01.2022, online and in-person, place: l'Aquila – University, event for academic students, professors, and school teachers. The event involved more than 2000 European/local citizens, including 600 Abruzzo Region teachers, 1400 L'Aquila University (IT) – students (Social Work Science, Education and Training Science, Planning and Management of Social Work and Educational Service and Primary Teachers Education courses), 1 Istituto Italiano per la Storia della Resistenza e dell'Italia Contemporanea – L'Aquila, 1 Istituto Nazionale per l'Analisi delle Politiche Pubbliche – Rome; in addition also 1 Ufficio Scolastico Regione Abruzzo and 7 Local administrators.

The event's aim: The Italian partners focused on citizenship education, providing a space for discussion that crosses the traditional disciplinary, theoretical, and/or methodological boundaries in such a way as to promote civic, social, and political knowledge at all levels and with the help of all disciplines in all areas, also using the analysis of Italian and European legislative sources.

During workshops and training (also with academic students) training, the problem of citizenship has been addressed at several levels:

- citizenship as a specific domain;
- the cultural dimension, i.e. the role it plays in the formation and construction of population profiles;
- citizenship as "civic" knowledge teaches;
- the curriculum, or rather the set of citizenship skills required in relation to the objectives and disciplinary content;
- the political choices made in education aimed at resolving the "organized conflict" between different visions of citizenship, cultural approaches, etc.

The Italian situation has been discussed, looking at the relationship between citizenship and education. The question of citizenship was seen to be at least six levels:

the relationship between national citizenship (country/state), European and global citizenship;

- the relationship between citizenship and rights, principles and values;
- the declination of citizenship skills, starting from the analysis of some Italian documents (in line with European ones) and the curricular indications that have been provided to schools over the years;
- the relationship between citizenship skills and so-called "key" skills;
- the components that characterize citizenship competencies;
- the design dimensions and those of the measurement of citizenship skills.
